Good Numbering

Hard to read - Trees Obscuring Numbers

Easy to read curb numbering

Easy to read - 30" High

House & Address Numbering

Emergency responders need good, highly visible house numbers in order for them to arrive quickly to calls for help. Therefore we recommend the following guidelines when installing address numbers.

Dwelling addresses should be in Arabic letters or numerals, and at least 4 inches in height.

Easy to read numbers

Letters and numbers should be of a contrasting color to the background and illuminated or made of reflective material when possible.

Hard To Read Numbers

When looking at the main entrance, the numbers should be visible within a 3' foot circumference of that entrance.

Numbers within 3' of the front door

If the dwelling has a front porch, it is recommended the numbers be displayed on the outer wall or post closest to the street

Address signs should be at least thirty (30) inches above ground level and free of obstruction like trees & shrubs

Signs 30 inches above ground level

When two or more mailboxes are placed side by side together in a row, then the numbers should be placed on the fronts of the mailboxes.

Poor Addressing -No Numbers or Letters Visible -Vegetation Covering Mailbox

Good Lettering
